Enid Blyton

Enid blyton was born in London, England, in 1879. By the time she died, she had written over six hundred books and they translated into almost seventy languages. Since her first book, Child Whispers, appeared in 1922, generations of children all over the world have enjoyed her many stories. Enid blyton trained as a Kindergarten teacher and soon opened her own lower primary school. She eventually gave up teaching to devote more time to writing children's literature. Her many stories, plays and songs appeared in Teacher's World magazine. They became so popular that teachers used them in their lessons. In 1938, the secret Island was published. It was the first of many full-length adventure stories. The most popular of these series have been the famous Five, The secret Seven, Five Find-Outers and Barney mystery books. The School series, Malory Towers and St Clare's, have also been extremely popular. In 1995, the famous five series of books was serialized for television. This encouraged even more children to pick up her books and start reading. As well as the books for older readers, Enid Blyton wrote many delightful stories for younger children. These include The Faraway Tree, The Wishing Chair, Amelia Jane and Noddy. Enid Blyton died in 1968. She had dedicated her working life to writing books that children would enjoy reading. For over eight years, the stories written by Enid Blyton have encouraged many children to become enthusiastic readers. They become familiar with the characters in a series and are keen to follow them in the next book. Where will their next adventure take them? How will they solve the latest mystery? What mischief will they get up to in the next school term? To find out, pick up an Enid Blyton book!

Earth has not any thing to show fairer
Dull would be the soul who could pass by
A sight so touching in its majesty;
This city now doth, like a garment, wear
The beauty of the morning; silent, bare,
Ships, towers, domes, theaters and temples lie
Open unto the field, And to the sky;
Never did some more beautifully steep
In his first splendor, valley, rock, or hill;
Ne'er saw I, never felt, calm so deep;
The river glideth at his own sweet will.
Dear God; the very houses seem asleep,
And all that might heart is lying still;
